Before the Frost

By Heather Goddin

Troubador Publishing, United Kingdom, 2016. Paperback. Book Condition: New. 216 x 138 mm. Language: English . Brand New Book. Before the Frost is a sensitive collection of poems, written in, and about, old age. There are poems of love, loss and the fear of loss; of hope, despair, loneliness and resignation. Some are unashamedly romantic but realism is never far away. Some are funny but sometimes there is an underlying sadness, whilst darker ones often have a quirky twist at the end. Some are observations of everyday life - all the encounters have actually happened. And some describe places dear to the author's heart, such as Malta and her beloved Stockholm. Heather's ideas come out of thin air: a line from a printed page; lines jotted down on paper bags; lines composed in her head whilst on the bus into town; and thoughts that pull her from bed in the middle of the night to put down words before they get away. A self-professed Luddite, the only tools she uses to compose her poems are sheets of paper and a biro (her only concession to technology), but not quite a quill pen and ink! Before the Frost is...
